More About Floods. . . .

Carmel Pine Cone.
Gentlemen:

I was very much interested in the photograph of the artichoke field at the mouth of the Carmel River and the news item in connection with it appearing in the last (Oct. 31) issue of the Pine Cone.

I have been familiar with the flood conditions in the river since I was a young boy. The Martin home being what is now known as the Mission Ranch.

Many times I have seen the water running over that field from a depth of from five to ten feet. The river has broken through its south bank east of Highway One, and then run westerly across the artichoke fields to the mouth. What has happened in the past could happen again.

There is strong physical evidence on the ground that at one time the main channel of the river hit the east boundary of the Carmel Meadows subdivision and thence ran in a northwesterly direction along that boundary to the mouth. This, of course, happened before my day.

Trusting these remarks may be of interest to you, I am, very truly yours,

CARMEL MARTIN, SR.

Feathers . . . From the Shaft

No. 33

By Harry the Fletcher

The nicest man I knew in town was John James Jeroleum Brown. His wife he treated like a bride, and served his town with civic pride, and got to church on time.

The children, both his own and ours, he'd entertain for hours and hours. In sandlot games he played the coach. He lived a life above reproach, and seldom squeezed a dime.

He'd be alive today, I think; he had no vices, didn't drink, except for one obsessing trend which really brought about his end — he drove his car like mad.

Each time he sat behind the wheel he shed his mask, and made us feel that all the world but he was nuts, and all the roads were full of ruts, and ev'ry cop a cad.

He fumed at busses, cussed the trains, said taxi drivers had no brains, stole right of way, and jumped the lights, thought women drivers had no rights. For trucks had special hate.

He always passed the car ahead with heavy-footed throttle tread, until he cut it once too fine and couldn't get back into line — See obit on Page Eight.

CARMEL WINS LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP

Phil Zobel shows fatigue in last Friday night's game with Pacific Grove—with good reason. The hard-won victory gave the Padres the championship of the Mission Trails Athletic League

BY "A CASUAL OBSERVER"

Last Friday night the Carmel High School Varsity won the football championship of the Mission Trail Athletic League by defeating the Pacific Grove Breakers, 14-12, in what proved to be the most exciting game of the year.

The victory gave Carmel its second title in a row, and preserved a 17-league-game winning streak. The Padres varsity faced its severest test of the season as the undefeated Breakers boasted their finest team in many years.

From the opening kickoff, it was obvious to everyone in the overflow crowd at the P. G. Junior stadium that both teams were determined to take the league crown and that a truly bruising ball game was under way.

P.G. controlled the ball for the first half. Time after time Bob Roberts, Pacific Grove's all-league fullback, ripped the Padre line at tackle and around end, but the stubborn Padres stiffened their defense and managed to keep their goal line uncrossed.

Seconds before the half ended, the Breakers were on the Carmel six-yard line, and Roberts started on a left end sweep. For an agonizing moment it looked as though the big fullback would certainly score as he picked up speed. Then, at the last moment, a host of red jerseys appeared from nowhere and smothered the potential point-maker on the three-yard line.

The half ended with the score tied, 0 - 0, and undoubtedly there were a few Padre heads bowed in gratitude.

The third period opened with Carmel utilizing the first real break of the ball game as Alan Nishimura, catching the P.G. secondary out of position, threw a perfect pass to Ralph Juarez down the middle on a 65-yard T.D. play.

The Breaker backs were in a bit too close and once Juarez had the ball, the Carmel Valley cheetah left the P.G. defenders in the dust.

"The Flavour Fling" New Name on Ocean

A Carmel Ocean Avenue business, formerly known as the Carmel Creamery, announces in this week's issue of the PINE CONE the selection of a new name, chosen from about 300 entries in a naming contest.

"The Flavour Fling" was the name chosen by the committee. A spokesman for the group said that there were at least 30 people who suggested the name "The Purple Cow," the same name as that of a book written by a former resident of Carmel, Gelett Burgess.

Predictably, most of the entries were from the Peninsula, but two came from New York City. The committee expressed appreciation to the PINE CONE for its assistance in the contest. The paper was the only medium used to advertise the contest.

Other names which drew attention from the committee were The Wholly Cow, Rhapsody in Moo, Me'Nu, The Land of Ahs, Garden of Eatin', Halle's Comet and The Big Scoop.

Since the name was suggested anonymously, it was announced that the $25 bond will be awarded to the Carmel Youth Center.

Dr. Bialek Named To School Board

Dr. Hilton M. Bialek was appointed to the Board of Education of Carmel Unified School District last night. Dr. Bialek is associated with the Human Resources Research Unit at the Presidio of Monterey. He has his Ph.D. in general and experimental psychology from Claremont Graduate School and has been a resident of the Peninsula since 1957.

Major matter to come before the board at the meeting was a decision on two bus routes. The board decided to run the Pebble Beach run via 17-Mile Drive, Stevenson Drive and Del Monte Lodge. The route beyond the intersection of 17-Mile Drive and Stevenson Drive was discontinued. Several residents of the area appeared to protest the proposed change in vain. Statements by parents indicated that they felt it was unsafe for children to walk two to four blocks along heavily traveled, wooded streets in the forest.

The board also approved a route north on Highway 1 to Valley Way, then through town on Junipero to Sunset and then to the Junior High School. A sub-route from the junior high to Mission Fields, Hatton Fields and return was approved with the provision that it be discontinued when the proposed walkways are established to the junior high.

The seemingly perennial controversy concerning a definition of the school district in which the Dudley home is located took a new turn with information that the home may be located in the Soledad district. Previously, the discussion included only the Greenfield and Carmel Districts.

A proposal by the Carmel Valley Community Center to lease a proposed pool to the school district met with a request for a further breakdown of expense to accompany the matter when it is placed on the agenda for the next meeting of the board. The board also administered a mild slap on the wrist to the proponents of the pool, who in their literature have been saying "it is a fact that the Carmel Unified School District will take over its maintenance," and other such statements when, in actuality, the board had never previously had an opportunity to discuss the matter.

Due to holiday scheduling, the next meeting of the board will be held Thursday, Dec. 5 and the following meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 18.

An Editorial

On next Tuesday voters in this area will be asked to decide whether there are adequate facilities for the students now in school when these youngsters plan to enter college.

Regardless of the smokescreen which has been thrown up to obscure the issues, we feel it is imperative that the Monterey Peninsula College bond and override tax proposals receive an affirmative vote at the polls Tuesday. The suggestion that the land where the college is now located is getting too valuable for education, and that the college should move to cheaper land is ludicrous. The same argument would insist that the beach be "improved" by private developers to add to the local tax rolls. The vacuous argument that MPC should use high-rise structures in this scenic area is equally absurd.

It is a virtual certainty that the land proposed for purchase will never be obtained for less money than is possible now. We concur that a large portion of the land to be acquired should be used for parking, due to the unique character of our college.

We herewith present some statements by leading citizens of our community:

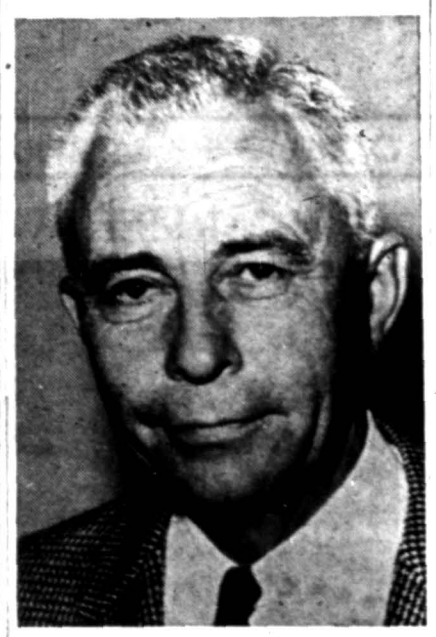
Mayor Eben Whittlesey

"I urge your support of Proposition No. 1, the School Bond Issue on Nov. 19. We are committed to a Junior College Program and have a fine college. Nothing seems more inevitable in this area than continued population growth and rising land costs. Property available for enlargement of the campus will never be cheaper, and will soon disappear from the market. Now is the time to provide a means for orderly, well planned growth of the college plant. College education has become a necessity for those entering today's competitive labor market. It will cost us less to maintain a firstclass college here for our children than to send them away to college."

Eben Whittlesey, Mayor
City of Carmel-by-the-Sea



Robert Ross

"Today's highly complex society demands that our educational institutions provide trained graduates to take their places in a wide variety of jobs. After high school, the junior college stands ready to give our future citizens and leaders the kind of training they need.

"Our own Monterey Peninsula College is doing a fine job of training future citizens — the kind of citizens we need and want right here on the Peninsula. But the College's campus is overcrowded and under-equipped. Expansion is needed if the college is to do its job for the youngsters who are already in school here in Carmel and elsewhere on the Peninsula.

"Planning is important for the growth we know will take place. Land for this growth must be purchased now. This is the college's last chance to expand its campus for a future which is already upon us.

"For all these reasons, I urge all Carmel citizens to support the College bond and override tax proposals. Vote "Yes" on both issues Tuesday, Nov. 19."

Robert Ross, Carmel Realtor, Chairman, Citizens Committee for the College Election

James vanLoben Sels

"I've looked into the Master Plan being presented by the College to the people of the Monterey Peninsula Nov. 19 and I am satisfied that it is a carefully devised program that takes into account not only pressing problems of today but also those we can see coming tomorrow, and even 10 or 20 years from now.

"If we have learned anything of the Monterey Peninsula, it is the great value of planning for the future. We know the MPC student body is increasing. We know it will continue to increase. To meet its expanding job, the college must itself expand. More classrooms, more laboratories, more facilities must be built.

"The cost of these proposals to the taxpayer seems to be conservative, especially when we consider the great value of this college to our community both culturally and economically.

"These are reasons I have decided to support the MPC bond and override tax program. And I urge my fellow-citizens in Carmel and elsewhere on the Peninsula to do the same Nov. 19."

James van Loben Sels

Notice the heater?

Give up? It's an electric heater and it's in the baseboard. You can hardly see it, but you sure can feel its warmth. Silent, even heat covers the room. What's more, this is only one kind of electric heater. There are wall insert models, floor insert models, and 240 volt portable models. And each has a room control. Medill Bair

"Having come recently from the East, I've been impressed by California's system of higher education, in which such community colleges as MPC serve a variety of important purposes.

"The value of a tuition-free college right here at home for our youngsters' freshman and sophomore years is incalculable, especially when we consider the high cost of sending these students to four-year colleges, public or private. Here the young man and woman have their chance to make a start in college under the most favorable circumstances possible.

"As admission to state universities and colleges becomes more difficult, Monterey Peninsula College is going to enroll even more than the present 60 per cent of Carmel High School's graduates. This means, of course, that the College will need more classrooms, more laboratories, more facilities of all kinds. The College's Board of Trustees has planned well and wisely for this needed expansion.

"The cost of the proposed bond issue and override to the taxpayer in our community does not seem to me at all out of line. Education costs money, and this particular educational institution gives the whole community a very high return for every tax dollar invested in it."

Medill Bair, Superintendent of Schools, Carmel

Church of The Wayfarer Record Breaking Meeting

More than 150 members of the Church of the Wayfarer crowded the Fellowship Hall on Monday evening for the largest dinner meeting in the history of the church. Dr. K. Fillmore Gray presided during the meal and introduced Mrs. Carl Welchner, soprano soloist, accompanied by Connell K. Carruth, and the Rev. Herbert W. Neale, who was in charge of the business meeting. He is the superintendent of the San Jose District of the Methodist Church and is giving help in developing the new church organization structure.

The nominating committee, named at the meeting, will present the slate of new officers and board members at a special meeting of the church members to be held Thursday evening, November 14th. The committee includes: C. John Viking, John J. Powels, Herbert L. Myers, Mrs. Rudd Crawford, Larry Cunningham, Dr. Robert E. Cater, Leslie E. Dixon, Mrs. Alfred Scheldrup, Mrs. Hawley Fosnaugh, and Gary Avedisian.

Also to be elected on Thursday evening will be new officers of the Woman's Society, following the report of the committee on nominations: Mrs. Gordon Lundeen, Mrs. Fred L. Farley, Mrs. Elmer L. Browning, Mrs. John R. Christie, and Mrs. M. J. Kosty.

Serving coffee and dessert at the meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall will be: r. and Mrs. Donald E. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hopelain, Lt. and Mrs. Elmer L. Browning, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie E. Dixon.

Taxpayer Group Opposes MPC Bonds

Confident that Carmel voters will vote "No" on the Monterey Peninsula College $8,850,000 bond and override tax, Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure, Ret. urged every registered voter to go to the polls at the special election next Tuesday.

McClure, president of the Monterey Peninsula Taxpayers' Association, said, "Peninsula taxpayers, already burdened by heavy taxes this year, will be jolted with another 34 cents per $100 assessed valuation if the twin propositions carry."

"We will support a reasonable expansion program for MPC," McClure added, "but we cannot accept the present proposed program, which is extravagant and gives the Board of Trustees blank check authority to spend this huge amount of money with only vague and general references as to what this money will be used for."

The association listed the following reasons why it is opposing the two propositions:

1. Taxpayers were given insufficient time by the MPC board to study proposals of the magnitude contained in the propositions.

2. The college board should not be given blank check authority to spend $6,850,000 to be raised by the bond issue and an estimated $2,000,000 additional by the override tax, a total of $8,850,000, with only vague and general references as to what this money will be used for.

3. The Board failed to give adequate recognition and study to less extravagant alternate plans advanced by competent advisors.

4. Removal from the tax rolls of extremely high priced land with a potential $250,000 annual tax revenue to Monterey County will add further burdens on the taxpayers, particularly in Monterey city where the tax rate is the highest in the county.

5. No public appraisal has been made by the Board of the land cost for the proposed expansion and there is no evidence the land under condemnation can be acquired for the price listed in the Board's plan.

6. Questioned also is the unprecedented request by MPC for a 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation override tax for a long ten-year period without knowledge of whether this will meet the growth needs of the college. Most school override tax proposals are for two years and a maximum of five years.

McClure also announced the tax committee has enlisted the following Carmel volunteers: Dr. Ralph Weston, Col. and Mrs. W. B. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Tickle.

Voters are urged by McClure to contact the Taxpayers' office (phone 372-8083 and 372-8084) for information on where to vote.

Ski Club Presents "The White Search"

Internationally acclaimed ski photographer and lecturer, Dick Barrymore, brings his latest film "The White Search" to Sunset Auditorium this Sunday evening.

The 90 minute color film, personally narrated by Barrymore, features some of the world's best known skiers and covers most of the popular resorts in U.S., Australia, Alaska, Europe and South America.

Adventure enthusiasts will find their share of action as Barrymore and four companions, drive 4,000 miles on an "Alaskan Safari" to the rugged Wrangell Mountains in Alaska's interior, in search of the perfect ski paradise. The party camped on a glacier at 10,000 feet, and were flown by ski plane to the summit of 14,000 foot Mount Wrangell for one of the highest small plane landings ever made in Alaska.

"The White Search" takes viewers on a ride in a 1928 Rolls Royce convertible with "Lawrence of Beverly Hills" and his trusty chauffer, in their hilarious search for snow, only to become lost in the middle of blistering Death Valley. Through the eyes of "Lawrence" the viewing audience is transported to the ski resorts, as he longingly glances through a skiing magazine under the blazing sun.

Also featured in the film is a look at the site of the 1966 World Alpine Ski Championships at Portillo, Chile, where powder snow abounds during our summer.

Tickets may be purchased from Carmel Ski Club members or at Sunset Auditorium.

Putting Fun Into Fund Raising

The Mother Goose Chapter of the Children's Home Society will hold its "Around the World Silent Auction" party this Saturday evening in the Mission Ranch Barn, Carmel.

Cocktails will be served at 6:30, with dinner at 8 o'clock, and guests are urged to appear in costumes of foreign lands, 'tho a costume is not essential.

Fantastic gifts from all corners of the world, to be displayed, are already piling high, according to Mrs. George Dovolis, general chairman, and Mrs. Harry Bullard, auction table chairman. A silent bid will allow everyone to bid on each item. At midnight, the name at the bottom of the list, having advanced the price from the name ahead, will be the winner of the gift. There will be dancing throughout the evening.

Mrs. H. R. Fonesca is president of the Mother Goose Chapter of the Children's Home Society, the only adoption agency serving all of California assisting natural parents in planning for their child. WEEK END FROLICS

The season of going places is upon us and looking at the week-end calendar it's a safe bet that the girls—sixteen to seventy, will be dressed in their best from noon today right through to Sunday night. The gala "opening gun" is, of course, today's Symphonie d'Elegance, the Symphony Guild's luncheon-fashion show at the Soldiers Club House at Fort Ord. Too bad our presses were rolling as the show was going on. We'll have pictures for you next week.

Tomorrow night is the night teen age girls will wear their best burlap (scratchy stuff). It's Sadie Hawkins night at Carmel High School. Pigtails rather than pouf hair-dos; overall and jeans will be worn by gentlemen. The dance is sponsored by the sophomores and the committee promises a real bash. Pam Baldwin has entertainment on her mind; Connie Norwick and Nancy Thompson, refreshments; Kate Dalton, Sue May and Ronnie Fukagawa, decorations; Steve Antoncich, set construction and John and Gerry Montmorency, tickets.

The Plus Fours are to be singing barbershop at Sunset tomorrow and Saturday nights. If you love close harmony, don't miss!

The Mother Goose Chapter of the Children's Home Society cocktail-dinner-auction party at Mission Ranch on Saturday is, so Mrs. Ralph Thompson tells us, practically a sell-out right now, but there are tickets available if you hurry. You can dress up in foreign costume, if you wish, a grand idea!

The Darius N. Keatons, Jr.'s Suppressed Desires party at the Beach Club, Pebble Beach on Saturday evening, cocktails, dinner and dancing, will allow the invited guests to appear in their true colors—everything from basic black to blazing red to pastel pink and baby blue, we have no doubt.

Calming frayed nerves with beauty, John Gosling will conduct the Monterey County Symphony's chamber orchestra in a program at Monterey Peninsula College on Sunday afternoon. The concert to start at 4 p.m. is open to all, without charge. The concert will be staged in cooperation with Local 616, Am. Federation of Musicians, through a grant from the Recording Industries Trust Fund to "create a greater interest in live music performance."

PADRE PATTER

by Mary Hurn

Many people have developed misconceptions and faulty opinions of high school student government and extracurricular activities. Parents may speak of these activities as being unimportant or insignificant; some students say they see no reason for school spirit or participation in school affairs. In reality, students at Carmel High School are engaged in many constructive projects.

Pacific Grove High School challenged CHS to a student body card sales competition. Carmel was lagging behind Pacific Grove: 66% of their students had purchased student body cards while only 61% of our students had bought them. Conscientious student council officers met, and a resolution was put into effect which requires all athletes representing Carmel High in interscholastic athletics and all candidates for student body office to have a student body card.

Jim Amos, commissioner of traffic control, has been hard at work organizing campus clean-up projects. On several Sunday afternoons, energetic Padres formed work parties at the high school. In a recent student council meeting, Jim evaluated these clean-ups as "very successful." Student council has discussed establishing a "litter fine" to be paid by an offender before he will be admitted to any school function.

A different type of student activity is being sponsored by Mr. Lyon and organized by Jim Miller and Steve Arnon. This is the Model United Nations.

A simulated Security Council will be held at Pacific Grove High School in December. A complaint about Indonesian aggression against Malaysia will be brought against Thailand. After a General Session, the delegates will meet in committees to discuss military, legal, and political problems. Carmel High School will represent the countries of Venezuela, U.S.S.R., and Norway. Fifteen Carmel students will have the opportunity of participating in this Model U.N. Students will gain a better understanding of the United Nations, international affairs, politics, and public speaking.

Extracurricular activities such as these have two purposes. They provide the student with a means of actively participating in a type of governmental system, and they give the students a chance to develop leadership abilities.

The Sur Coast

By ELIZABETH FULLER JONES

Bennett Bradbury, eminent marine painter of Big Sur, is currently enjoying a one man showing of sixteen oils at the Poulsen Galleries in Pasadena. Mr. Bradbury, a native of Massachusetts, early became acquainted with the rugged seacoast of New England. Although he trained for a musical career, his love of painting and his love of the sea was his absorbing interest. During a period of six years when he was serving in the United States Navy, he had a continual opportunity to observe the sea in all its moods. It has been said of Mr. Bradbury that his no sentimental approach, but a true statement, he "puts the sea on canvas."

Bennett Bradbury has the distinction of having his works in many private collections and museums in the United States, Canada, South America and other parts of the world.

His exhibition in the Southern California Gallery has been well received. Present for the opening was Mrs. LaVerne Allen, Curator of the Coast Gallery, Big Sur.

Curator of the Poulsen Galleries in Pasadena is Mr. Scott McLean, who will continue the Bennett Bradbury show until the end of November. Mr. and Mrs. Scott McLean have recently become property owners in the Coastlands area of Big Sur.

Stephen Goetz, foreman of the fire crew at the Big Sur Guard Station of the Los Padres National Forest in Big Sur, with his wife Sandra Joe and son Jacob Norman are leaving soon for a three weeks vacation trip to Michigan. The Goetz will visit Mrs. Goetz parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Herrick in Albion, Michigan and many other relatives that live in nearby towns. The Herricks have twenty-six grandchildren, one of whom is little Jacob Norman, whom they have never seen.

Mrs. David Wilhelm of upper Palo Colorado Canyon, has recently joined the staff of the Monterey Peninsula Visiting Nurse Association, and together with seven other registered nurses and one vocational nurse, serve the needs of the residents of Monterey, Carmel, Pacific Grove, Seaside, Carmel Valley and the Sur Coast areas. Before joining the Visiting Nurse Association, Elizabeth Wilhelm (as she is known to countless individuals on the Peninsula), served for ten yers as night nurse at the Monterey Hospital. Mrs. Wilhelm, who took her nurse's training at Lenox Hill Hospital in New York City, comes to her new position with joyous enthusiasm. Through the years friends and patients have asked "Why did you go into nursing as a career?" "Because," Elizabeth Wilhelm happily replies, "I would rather do something for someone to help them rather than just stand by a give my sympathy."

Paws for Comment

By Pheemy and Brandy

As Told to Andre Hope

Brandy's daughter, Champagne, has turned out to be quite a pawful. Left alone for just a few minutes the other day she discovered a lamp wall plug and thought it would make a delightful toy. It came as quite a shock to her that it didn't. Except for a burned lip she has recovered from this electrifying experience. Be cautious when you visit her, though, she has discovered she can cause all kinds of entertaining confusion by chomping down on toes — human variety . . . .

A most handsome sight the other night; a young, antlered buck strolling majestically down the center line of Highway 1 in the moonlight. Fortunately we have trained our master and mistress to be very careful on wooded roads at night, so we were able to enjoy the scene and no one was harmed, including us . . . .

The last item reminds us of an article we wrote a couple of weeks ago regarding the fact that hit and run in case of animals is unlawful. We can give you a poignant example of what can happen when you don't stop to aid the wounded. Dano, a beautiful Bouvier De Flanders (used in Belgium for herding cattle and Red Cross Rescue work) was an important, beloved and happy member of the Don E. Sprong family of Carmel Highlands for four years. One night a Mr. McCracken of Yankee Point noticed a large, black dog lying by the side of Highway One. When he could not rouse the dog, he hurried home to call for help. On returning he found the dog had disappeared and assumed he had been rescued. Two weeks later Dr. Edgar Greenwaldt looked from the window of his home near Highland's Inn and noticed a black dog lying on the beach. Together with Miss Marjorie Fontana of the S.P.C.A. and officer Smith of the County Pound the good Doctor descended the steep cliff and helped to take Dano to a veterinary. It was too late. He died that night after having valiantly tried to go home to his family. Had the "hit and run" driver obeyed the law, called the S.P.C.A. and stood by until the ambulance arrived, this tragedy need never have happened. To a world that has, in many ways, been so good to us we hate to say "shame on you—but sometimes we must. We are all born live, love, work and die on the same earth, you know . . .

About gift pets for Christmas. May we suggest that for the very young, whom you might like to instruct in the care and feeding of pets—try something they can't exactly get at. Small birds in cages or ant colonies or gold fish. In spite of all the human puppies in the neighborhood, we once had a goldfish who lived to such an ancient age he actually had bags under his eyes. Maybe someone dropped an aspirin in his water occasionally . . . For older children and people who are away from home all day, but would like a pet around the house, there's nothing like a turtle—of the larger variety. We find them kind of amusing and they take very little care, like baths and clippings, etc. Also they solve their own housing problem and hardly ever bark, whine, snarl or disturb the atmosphere. We would suggest an enclosure of some sort, out of doors. One drawback; we understand it's not likely you'll ever housebreak one . . .

From A Librarian's Notebook

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg, City Librarian

In his book The Americans, Oscar Handlin traces us from immigration to this country through 355 years of development and shaping into what we are today. He projects his thoughts in his final chapter through the meaning of the atomic bomb and space travel of the future. This is truly a "new history of the people of the United States."

Edward Lamb was a lawyer who became a labor leader, a radio and television broadcaster, a newspaper publisher, and an operator of 26 companies. Living his life with all the gusto of which he was capable, he finally came to write his autobiography. He called it No Lamb for the Slaughter. An exciting book. Another autobiography is Those Days by Hamilton Fish Armstrong. Those days were the days around the turn of the century in New York, days which were unforgettable in a now vanished New York.

Harriet McJimsey in her book Art in Clothing Selection, defines women as belonging to yang and yin categories. The yang type seem to be more active, more dramatic, larger, often athletic women. The yin are the feminine heart-shaped face women. To this librarian it would seem that most women are in between these two types and the theory is McFlimsey. But the drawings illustrating the book seem good, and no doubt the information is valuable.

Joseph Gaer, who wrote How the Great Religions Began, has a new book entitled What the Great Religions Believe. In reasonably short form he discusses twelve great religions and what the beliefs of their adherents are. Libraries need books like this because of the many inquiries by persons who do not want to read an entire book on any one religion, but rather to get factual information in short order.

A truly magnificent book of color photographs and text is the American Heritage Book of Natural Wonders. The textual material was written by several well known historians and writers including Bruce Catton, Wallace Stegner, and William O. Douglas. The section on the Pacific Coast was written by Harold Gilliam and has photographs by Ansel Adams and Edward Weston. In some ways this is a frightening book, because it keeps dinning into the mental ears of the reader the terrible prospect of loss of nature's beauties by the ever encroaching spread of man and his inventions. Final page in the book is an aerial view of Los Angeles, a ghastly sight, and prophetic of what could happen to the California coast by the year 2,000. These are goblins that WILL gitcha if you don't watch out!

Where There's Life...

By Andre Hope

This is being written on a beautifully stormy day; perfect climate for the initial preparation of holiday foods. Spike the mince meat with additional rum and brandy (or good bonded bourbon, as a New Orleans friend once taught me). Make the fruit cakes; pickle the peach halves, remembering to use some preserved ginger and its juice. It's quite voluptuous to do them all on the same day so that you have a rare, spicy steam on your kitchen windows. While things are bubbling, boiling and baking I brew up some hot spiced wine and sip away on it while washing and brushing a mound of mushrooms. We're a family who enjoy traditions and on this night we like little filet mignons sauteed in butter and literally buried under mushrooms. I am writing this because more and more I fear that all these delicious preholiday gifts to the senses are about to vanish from the scene. The spice shelf in the kitchen is rapidly giving way to the food suppliments and people are taking their bread straight.

I remember wincingly well a day such as this when an out-of-town friend was visiting me. She brought a small overnight bag and something that looked like a pharmaceutical steamer trunk. I suggested breakfast — orange juice, croissant, honey, eggs. It was then I discovered that two vitamin C pills are better than orange juice, accompanied by wheat germ, skim milk and sugar substitute; also accompanied by multi-vitamins and five cups of black coffee. Lunch was vitamin B1, yogurt, diet cookies, four cups of black coffee and a digestive pill. When all of my bubbling, boiling, baking spicery came to a climax, she took what I suspect was a tranquilizer, accompanied by some raw sunflower and sesame seeds, a shot of yeast in prune juice and a cup or two of coffee. By this time I was "clued in", so for dinner we had liver and a raw vegetable salad with lo-cal dressing. Fortunately we love liver, cooked quickly and pinkly, garnished with bacon and onions. She didn't. Before bedtime, hers 10 P.M., mine 3 A.M., I suggested Ovaltine. I've liked it ever since I used to make Ovaltine shakes in my little Orphan Annie" shaker. Over her fourth cup of after dinner coffee, she sniffed at that. "My dear, that's only a food suppliment!" — Hmmmm?

After a sleeping pill, she retired with her heating pad and sleep masque, whilst I sneekyed into the kitchen and sampled the results of the day's cooking, read a few chapters of a good book and eventually slumbered with visions of sugar plums dancing in my head.

Let's see, that was approximately 15 cups of coffee, an avalanche of food suppliments and virtually no food. Imagine the price of the pill bill as compared to the weekly grocery tab! Not that I don't love coffee, one good cup after dinner sometimes; strong, black, carefully brewed. I even filch coffee beans at the "Entrepot" and chomp them down in secret satisfaction when Howard or Franklin aren't looking. Not that I don't approve of health food stores where one may find the finest in dried fruits and nuts for the aforementioned fruit cake or that most delicate and delicious cooking oil of all, sesame seed oil. BUT until the day I am sans senses or the world is sans provisions, I'd prefer the sights ,sounds, fruits, flowers and foods of our good earth, for where they are, there's life!

HIDE BOUND

Debatable — but a seal,
Viewing from his noon rock that peopled wave
Inshore, might reason:
What puny breed is man! Watch him congeal
In surf so mild, stumble to the beach, behave
Like a silly penguin out of season.
No gorgeous hide, imagine! The pitiful frame
Supports itself on jointed eels
And two more flaps from the neck. I see no tail,
No flippers — clearly, a species tame,
Poorly equipped, inferior to seals . . .
Let human prescience draw the veil
Across delusion. Quality need not know
Its pelt may soon adorn a dame or so.

A MAN'S CASTLE

A boy intent on moat and wall
Is king of some far distant land.
He rules domains of make believe;
His castle built from sea-wet sand.

Some day, when childish things are past,
His castle will be home with ties
Of love. Above all things a man
May seek, a home is still the prize.

OH STILL MY HEART

In sedge-grass water
Heron stands like white iris
Upon slender stem.

No sound, no ripple —
So still my heart without you
So deep my longing.

Of silence and soul anguish
May blossom white hope.

THE POPLARS

Thirteen poplars in a row
From my window here I see;
Oh, why do I love them so? —
I, the wanton, restless, free!

Is it that to me they seem
To be all that I would be? —
Each a maiden in a dream,
Daughter of tranquility.

Do they never yearn to go
Dancing o'er the tempting sod?
No, 'twould seem not, praying, lo! —
Tall, slim vestals, up to God.

When the winds of life blow strong
Would that I, as they, might say,
"Blow winds little, blow winds long,
My firm roots you shall not sway."

Thirteen poplars in a row
From my window here I woo;
Gazing, awed, I love them so! —
Wonder, do they love me too?

Book of Stevenson Essays Benefits Stevenson School

THE MIND OF ROBERT LOUIS STEVENSON. Selected essays, letters and prayers. Edited by Roger Ricklefs. (Thomas Yoseloff, New York)

Millions have read and enjoyed Robert Louis Stevenson's novels, but few realize that his non-fiction even exists. Here is an anthology which proves that Stevenson was far more than a romantic legend: a courageous invalid who led an active and adventurous life.

Every person on the Monterey Peninsula, every avid reader of Treasure Island, every admirer of Robert Louis Stevenson should count this book among his treasures, not merely to decorate a table or bookshelf, but to drink in and absorb this great author's own words portraying the wide range of his traits and moods; humor, angel, toleration, indignation, youthful atheism, later piety, profundity and, refreshingly enough in a famous man occasional uninhibited silliness.

In his foreward, Roger Ricklefs, the editor, states that "for valuable instruction and advice" he is "grateful to the Robert Louis Stevenson School faculty, and particularly to Mrs. Sybil Bolitho Fearnley, Instructor of English. Without her instruction for five years and her guidance for over a decade, this book would have been impossible."

All royalties from the sale of this book through the Robert Louis Stevenson School, Pebble Beach, California, benefit the School's Building Fund.

The ten chapters range from "Crabbed Age and Youth" to "The Philosophy of Umbrellas." Stevenson's essay on "Child's Play" is so full of delightful truisms, and opens windows into our minds and hearts, that most of us will blush that somebody knows our secrets — that we still like to play with dolls and tin soldiers.

In "Aes Triplex" Stevenson rattles on regarding the difference between life and living. "We do not go to cowards for tender dealing," he writes. "There is nothing so cruel as panic; the man who has least fear for his own carcass, has most time to consider others." Further, "Being a true lover of living, a fellow with something pushing and spontaneous in his inside, he must, like any other soldier, in any other stirring, deadly warfare, push on at his best pace until he touch the goal."

Roger Ricklefs was born in 1940 in San Rafael. In 1957 he was graduated from the Robert Louis Stevenson School for Boys, Pebble Beach, where his mother is a teacher and his father is president. He received his A.B. in History from Harvard University in 1961. At present he is a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army, serving at Fort Hamilton, New York, according to the short biography on the book's dust jacket. —H.W.F.

Frank Ankenbrand, Jr. Excels in Haiku Verse

PLUM BLOSSOM SCROLLS, Haiku by Frank Ankenbrand, Jr. The Windward Press, Audubon, New Jersey.

I think that the most delightful little book ever to come my way is this beautifully illustrated, handsomely printed, booklovers item of constant joy. All of the poems are haiku. So much must be said in seventeen syllables, that, to quote Countess Ethelyn d'Esternaux who writes the introduction, "it intrigues the imagination, stimulates the emotions, and expresses artistry through comparison which requires practiced discipline of thought to achieve.

"Western poets seldom have the patience to work successfully in such a short form; however, Frank Ankenbrand has accomplished this in these lovely poems, singly and in sequence.

"There are so many of these poems that have delighted me with the beauty expressed in them that it is difficulty to select one or two to mention. Two that have brought to me a very vivid pictures and also emotional satisfaction are one under "Lantern Slides" —

Peony stalks are
Green tapers in the garden
Carrying a bright flame.

and one from "Haiku for a Hoto togisu —

A bobwhite cries a
Note both clear and loud, and I
Become a rolling cloud.

Under Haiku for the Dragon Moth is

Bird notes are sands of Song falling into the hourglass of Melody."

Personally, I like, in addition (from Prayers) —

Lips part and form more
Than singing words. The heart,
Too, has crimson lips.

Frank Ankenbrand sent me a personally autographer copy of "Plum Blossom Scrolls" and this I shall keep beside me against the time when I may feel out of touch with beauty and song. My hope is that my readers may also secure for themselves such a treasure.

Other than being a fine poet, Frank Ankenbrand is a successful teacher, editor, writer, lecturer. Recently he was honored with a citation from Temple University for his outstanding service to young people. —H.W.F.

Revival In The Art of Quilting?

Meeting in the Carmel Art Association last Friday, the Carmel Crafts Guild elected Mrs. Eve Bell, president, and Mrs. Virginia Jaxon, treasurer, for the coming year. Newly elected to the Board of Directors are Mrs. Doris Ormsby and Mrs. Clara Martinie; continuing, to complete their two year terms are Geza St. Galy, Roscoe Russell and Mrs. Jane Bartram.

Speaker of the evening, Mrs. Martinie, gave a fascinating story of Patterns and Designs To and Fro. Illustrating the verity of cycles in fashion and design, Mrs. Martinie showed a century old patchwork quilt made by her mother and friends at quilting parties in Wisconsin.

"Most of the patches are of calico," Mrs. Martinie told, "The patterns are the tiny florals, the plaids and checks of a century ago. They were scraps from the ladies' house dresses.

"About 30 years ago I looked at the old quilt and found that a corner wasn't quite completed, so a friend and I went shopping. To our disappointment we couldn't come anywhere near matching the original patterns either in design or color. I put the old heirloom away for three decades.

"Going through an old chest the other day, the quilt, still bright and gay, came to view. I am an optimist, so, with the quilt under my arm, I went off shopping. Not only one drygoods counter on the Peninsula but several, rewarded my search. Lo and behold, the patterns of a century ago are again in vogue!"

Mrs. Martinie found one flaw in her discoveries — while the "calico" patterns of the Civil War period are being repeated the dyes are not, and probably never will be, quite the same. Accepting the inevitable Mrs. Martinie will complete the quilt, with, it is hoped, a quilting party.

Mrs. Martinie, who has made Carmel her home since 1949, is responsible for the Crafts showcase in the Harrison Memorial Library.

Before returning home the Rainiers traveled across Europe, then through the Suez Canal and to the Far East aboard a Dutch freighter. He will talk about their experiences on the trip and English secondary education.

This meeting will be held in the library for the first time. It will be opened at 7:45 p.m. by a color guard from Girl Scout Troop 158, a new troop composed entirely of girls from the Junior High.

Miss Diane Hardy's drama class will present a short play also. All parents of junior high school students are most cordially invited to attend.

Audubon Screen Tour Tonight At Sunset

Spectacular close-ups of an array of creatures that roam the vast wilderness area of western United States, as seen through the lens of Walter Berlet, of Caspar, Wyoming, will be shown under the auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society, the Carmel Unified School District and the National Audubon Society, this evening in Sunset Auditorium at 8:00 p.m.

Conservationist Berlet will tell his own story of "The Living Wilderness" and of the days and nights spent in trailing black bear and grizzly, marmot and mountain lion; moose, elk, bighorn and bison, as well as a variety of bird life.

The great out-of-doors and all the living, growing things which are part of the natural world have always been an inspiration to Walter Berlet. He was born in western Ohio, where he spent many of his boyhood years, and later graduated from Ohio State University.

Besides his extensive photographic treks in the United States, Walter Berlet has photographed in Mexico, Canada, Africa and Europe. As an Audubon speaker, he is a member of the National Audubon Society and the Canadian Audubon Society. He also holds membership in the Photographic Society of America, the Wyoming Audubon Club, the Sierra Club, and the Wilderness Society. He has developed and invented the Berco Lens Attachment, and has worked on special telephoto lenses.

The program will be the second in a series of five to be given this winter. Season and single admission tickets are available, in Carmel at Camera Craft Shop; at the Poor Scholar Bookshop in Monterey and at the Pacific Grove Museum in Pacific Grove.

For additional information regarding Screen Tours call Charles L. Dawson, MA 4-1714.

Taking Green Foliage Is Serious Offense

At the time of year when most of us are watching football games and enjoying early fall weather, Christmas tree operators are busy buying, cutting, and storing the Christmas trees which will grace our living rooms during the holiday season. Regional Forester Chas. A. Connaughton said today that most of the Northern California National Forests are selling blocks of trees for immediate harvest in anticipation of the market two months hence.

National Forest Christmas trees are sold to the highest bidder and are cut under the supervision of foresters of the U.S. Forest Service. In many cases, the cutting of trees is used as a method of improving the timber stand. By removing some of the trees those remaining can take advantage of the extra space in the competition for light and moisture. Likewise, many Christmas tree growers on private lands have carefully-managed long range tree farming programs.

Unfortunately, some cutting in the past has been done by tree thieves looking for a "fast buck" and having no thought for stand improvement or future growth. Such larceny should come to a sudden halt soon. Foresters, land owners and law enforcement officers have been given needed assistance by a new state law which tightens up requirements and provides penalties for illegal transportation or possession of Christmas trees. Stealing Christmas trees has long been a criminal offense under existing laws.

Under the new law, anyone transporting more than five trees or five pounds of greenery must obtain a transportation tag for each load from the Sheriff of the County where the trees are cut. To get this he must present a permit or bill of sale from the landowner to the local Sheriff. One copy of the permit must be filed with the sheriff's office before cutting is started. When less than five trees are to be moved, a permit signed by the landowner is required but it need not be filed with the sheriff's office. In other words it is illegal to possess or transport Christmas trees without having properly validated permits and transportation tags. The penalties for non-compliance have been increased from two hundred to five hundred dollars fine and/or six months in the county jail.

Anyone planning lawful Christmas tree supply operations can obtain detailed information about the new state law from the County Sheriff in the county where cutting is planned.

Football . . .

Grant Pollack's golden toe was on its way to a 24-karat night as the all-league tackle bifurcated the uprights to give the Padres a 7 - 0 lead.

On the ensuing kickoff, Pacific Grove's fleet halfback, Johnny Johnson, executed a brilliant runback to the Carmel thirty-five where Mike Paul, Carmel's last defender, pulled him down.

Roberts and Co. didn't take long to score the tying touchdown, but doughty Dave Preve blitzed through from his linebacker spot to block the conversion and keep Carmel in the lead, 7-6.

The next offensive series was one of the finest ever played by a Carmel team. John Tolan, Phil Zobel, and Ralph Juarez did some sensational running; Nishimura performed like a five-star field general; and Rich diLorenzo caught a pass that had the Breakers believing that Houdini was playing end. Roberts and Johnson defended beautifully, and both boys were right on Rich's back as they all went up for the ball. Suddenly, a pair of hands shot up like a couple of coiled cobras and the pigskin disappeared. All three men crashed to the ground, but it was diLorenzo who came up with the ball and sustained the Padre drive.

Juarez scored on a one yard plunge, and Grant Pollock added the extra point to give Carmel a 14-6 lead.

Pacific Grove scored again in the opening minutes of the fourth quarter, but Dave Preve broke through the Breaker line to block the conversion for the second time and the score remained, 14-12.

Now began the longest seven minutes in Padre history. Carmel lost the ball almost immediately, and the Breakers began to move from their own 20 toward the Padre goal line with deadly precision.

The Pacific Grove varsity looked confident and determined, and even a penalty and a Roberts fumble failed to stop the Breaker advance. Like high waves that surge up the Carmel beach after a winter storm, the Breakers moved relentlessly. Three times with a fourth down situation, Pacific Grove made the necessary yardage. The scoreboard clock showed less than two minutes in the game as Pacific Grove reached the Carmel 21-yard line. With fourth down and one yard to go, the P.G. quarterback handed off to Ron Stuttsman, and the Breaker halfback met Carmel sophomore tackle, Art Tracey, at the line of scrimmage. For one fearful moment the two players swayed together, and then Tracey toppled forward and buried the Breaker back in the turf, and with him Pacific Grove's vision of victory.

Grant Pollock of the Padres was named all-league tackle on both offensive and defensive teams.

Other Padres who were named to all-league posts were Dave Preve, offensive guard, Phil Zobel, offensive back and Dennis Clark, defensive back.

Both teams played magnificently and in the finest tradition of the game. Carmel retains the "Shoe" for another year and also the title as the top team in the Mission Trail Athletic League.

The Carmel jayvees also won their league, and kept intact their 27-game winning streak by defeating the Breakerbabes 45-0!

Thanksgiving Was Celebrated Nov. 4

Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Broadus hosted a family party to celebrate Thanksgiving way back on Nov. 4. It was all because son Bill (Lt. Col. Robert E. Broadus), with Mrs. Broadus and their five children, Robert Jr., Julie, Jim and the twins, John and Bill, were off to Fort Lee, Virginia this week.

The young family recently returned from Korea where the Colonel headed the U.S. Medical Advisory group, working with medical officers of the Korean as well as the U.S. Armies.

Mrs. Broadus as well as her husband took a lively part in Korean life. Stationed near Taegu, a city of 700,000, she taught English in the Korean College there, and the entire family cultivated friendships with Koreans, "Friendships that we hope will last through our lifetimes," Mrs. Broadus said.

Also at the Thanksgiving party were the Broadus' elder son Bernard, of Stockton and their daughter, Miss Zeala Broadus.

● Just one of those lucky people! Mrs. Edmund Rudoni was the winner of the drawing held by the House of Lyn, the brand new fashion shop in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center. She carried home an Italian knit suit, valued at $100!!

● The piano recital held last Sunday afternoon by Marjorie Wurzmann in her home was a huge success. Performing for their parents and friends were, Kitty White, Rhonda Nemer, Sarah Johnston, Johanna Verguson, Jimmy Hatlo and Jolly Garcia. Refreshments followed the recital.

Does MPC need the Most Extravagant kind of building!
In addition to parking lots and playfields, Monterey Peninsula College's supposed need for additional land is based on one-story school rooms — the most extravagant kind of building. One-story construction, the Monterey Peninsula Herald points out (Oct. 14) "is a luxury increasingly difficult to justify here . ." And as Mayor George Clemens has said "A person can get educated just as well on a second or third floor, as on the first."

QUIET ELEGANCE IN A RUSTIC SETTING: An unusually attractive NEW four-bedroom home on a distinctive site four miles from Carmel shops. Designed by William Ricker, AIA, and custom-built to combine a livable floor plan with decorator-chosen items and "quality" materials, this residence features a two-level room arrangement flexible in usage to provide comfort for a retired couple alone, or with additional family members sharing the household, live-in help, or with frequent guests. The lower-floor three rooms and two baths have access from the inside stairway as well as doors leading out to the garden. A modified Oriental atmosphere, introduced by the three framed wall prints in the entry is repeated in the railing for the spacious deck that overlooks a landscaped garden and provides a glimpse of the ocean through distant pines. Driftwood finish on walls and open ceilings of the livingroom, separate diningroom and master bedroom; wool wall-to-wall carpeting; contemporary kitchen with built-in units, special ceramic tile and birch cabinetry; powder room and master bath with gold fittings. Light fixtures, door knobs and drawer pulls are unique in color and design, all handcrafted. Curving paved driveway, complete fencing, board-on-board exterior and heavy shake insulated roof are other desirable characteristics of this fine property.

COSY HOME WITH A TYPICAL CARMEL VIEW: Livingroom with a "picture window" view of the Mission, two bedrooms with wardrobe closets, bath with tub shower, kitchen with dining-corner and a sunny deck . . . . situated in an area of choice homes, this attractive property is a good market value—$32,500.

Four Generations of Fair Fehrings

Age five months is a bit early for a lady, even if she is red-headed, to go visiting, but not if she is a granddaughter of the Ted Fehrings, visiting grandma and grandpa.

The young lady is Deborah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Davini (Jean Fehring) of Yuba City, where David is teaching High School. The Ted Fehrings went for a visit and brought Debbie home to Carmel so that she might enjoy not only her grandparents, but her great grandparents, too, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Fehring, who came for a visit, rented a house, and are probably going to turn Carmelites.

To complete Fehring family news, Janet is at Stanford, majoring in English, and Joy is at U.C. at Davis. Julie is in Carmel Junior High 8th grade, and JoAnn, youngest of the Fehring quintette, is in 6th grade at Sunset.

Thanksgiving Hop to Benefit Palsy Victims

Young adults and teenagers in Carmel, Pacific Grove, Monterey, Seaside, Fort Ord and Marina will follow the Thanksgiving celebration with a celebration of their own — "The Thanksgiving Hop" on Friday, Nov. 29, at the Monterey Armory.

The "Thanksgiving Hop" is part of a nationwide effort in which thousands of teenagers in more than fifty cities in U.S. will take part for the benefit of United Cerebral Palsy's Service, Education and Research programs.

Dances will be held simultaneously in cities from California to Florida. The chairmen for the local hop is Dorothy Fritsche, daughter of retired M/Sgt. and Mrs. W. J. Fritsche of Carmel Valley, and Jan Veach, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Veach of Monterey. Master of ceremonies will be Mr. Robb Mahr an active civic participant of Marina and best known for the many activities with the youth in Marina.

Frankie Avalon is again honorary national chairman for the hops. He said, "I am happy to serve in an event in which teenagers are showing their concern for the community welfare.

"The coordinated effort of the 'Thanksgiving Hop' to raise funds to combat a cruel crippler which effects 600,000 children and adults is an outstanding example of their sense of responsibility and willingness to help others less fortunate than themselves."

Mrs. John F. Testa, president of U.C.P. of Central Coast Tri-County Affiliate, states, "On the Peninsula our teenagers have helped United Cerebral Palsy in the monitor program, rest center program and in the U.C.P. booth at the races."

Craig Bettencourt is chairman of publicity, Pam Baldwin, tickets, Linda Ray Huddel, entertainment; Kathy McGaughey, decorations; Margie Stanke, Fort Ord representative; Polly Campbell, detail chairman, daughter of Judge Campbell.

World Affairs Speaker Here Tomorrow Night

"Revolution and Conflict in the Middle East" will be reported by George Lenczowski, L.L.M., J.S.D., Professor of Political Science at the University of California, Berkeley, tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. at Carmel High School. This is the fourth of five public lectures on "Democracy vs. Communism" arranged by the Peninsula World Affairs Council in cooperation with the Carmel Adult Education Division.

Dr. Lenczowski, who is a Polish-born naturalized U.S. citizen, has re-visited Europe and the Middle East every year since 1955 and returned last September from a four-months' stay which brings his total residence there to nine years. He is chairman of the Committee for Middle Eastern Studies on the Berkeley faculty.

WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

Maintaining phone lines is a never ending job! To keep phone lines ready for your calls, men in Telephone Patrol planes fly along hundreds of miles of phone cable nearly every day. They're on the lookout for construction work or other hazards that might damage underground or overhead lines. They warn anyone on the ground working near cables by dropping notes or calling to them over the plane's loudspeaker system.

You, too, can help protect your service (and your neighbors') by watching out for buried cable if you have occasion to use digging equipment on your property. If you're having a contractor handle the job, it's a good idea to remind him, too.

If you have any questions about the location of a buried cable, just give us a call.

While it didn't happen here, a mystery of phones ringing without callers recently was unravelled. Seems that a bull loved to scratch his back on the guy wire of a telephone pole in his pasture. Each time, the friction caused all the telephones on the rural line to ring.

Everyone was happy when telephone men moved the pole to the other side of the fence. Everyone, that is, except the bull.

Here's a problem that calls for some back-yard arithmetic. Let's say Mrs. Smith's telephone is in her living room—24 feet from the kitchen. She gets at least three phone calls a day when she's in the kitchen. This means that she walks 48 feet, back and forth, to answer the phone each time. That's 144 feet of walking a day, 52,560 feet a year. Now if Mrs. Smith's average step is 24 inches in length, how many extra steps does she make a year?

Any way you figure it, the best solution is a kitchen wallphone. It's one addition that lets you subtract steps.

Kipp Stewart, Designer-Builder of Carmel's Newest Shopping Center, "Carmel Square"

Primarily a designer of contemporary and functional furniture, known across the nation and in Europe as "Directional Furniture," Kipp Stewart is the designer-builder of "Carmel Square," the city's newest shopping center now in the making, on the east side of San Carlos between Ocean and 7th.

"While the buildings, eight shops and a sizeable restaurant, will not be early Comstock in design, we have given great thought to Carmel's character and our plans are, we feel, in harmony.

"As the model shows, there will be early 20th century light posts, landscaped paths and trees. My family and I are Carmel residents now and we are already looking to the day when we'll be taken into the fold as 'old timers.'"

Kipp Stewart, born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, was taken to southern California by his family at an early age.

Following graduation at Chouinard School of Design, Mr. Stewart traveled east where his furniture designs gained — and continue to have — wide popularity.

The Stewart family, Kipp, Mrs. Stewart, Bradford and Lindsey spent last year in Europe. "Mostly in Italy," Kipp told, "Bradford is attending Sunset School now and Lindsey is enrolled at River School.

"All things being equal, the San Carlos Street development should have its housewarming in February and we hope it will prove a meeting place for visitors and residents, a real Carmel landmark, in character, a blend of something new and something old.

The site of "Carmel Square" has long been a landmark to visitors, when, through the years, hundreds met at the little Bach Festival office that stood there.

When Kipp Stewart was searching for a suitable site for his shopping center he went to August Nieto who sold him the property belonging to Mrs. Maude Stewart —no relation to Kipp.

Leasing of the individual shops and management of Carmel Square is being handled by August Nieto, Real Estate at Dolores and Fifth.

Oral polio clinics will be held on Monday, November 18 and 25 from 1:00-4:00 p.m. Sabin vaccine is also available every Wednesday morning from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. The clinic is at 550 Calle Principal, Monterey.
